

Figure 1 displays a series of 12 line drawings illustrating the development of a child's drawing of a person from age 2 to age 10. The drawings are arranged vertically, with the youngest at the top and the oldest at the bottom. Each drawing is labeled with an age and a description of the features.

- Age 2: A simple vertical line with a small circle at the top.
- Age 3: A vertical line with a small circle at the top and a small horizontal line at the bottom.
- Age 4: A vertical line with a small circle at the top and two small horizontal lines at the bottom.
- Age 5: A vertical line with a small circle at the top and two small horizontal lines at the bottom, with a small dot in the center of the torso.
- Age 6: A vertical line with a small circle at the top and two small horizontal lines at the bottom, with a small dot in the center of the torso and a small dot at the bottom.
- Age 7: A vertical line with a small circle at the top and two small horizontal lines at the bottom, with a small dot in the center of the torso and a small dot at the bottom, and a small dot at the top of the head.
- Age 8: A vertical line with a small circle at the top and two small horizontal lines at the bottom, with a small dot in the center of the torso and a small dot at the bottom, and a small dot at the top of the head and a small dot at the bottom of the head.
- Age 9: A vertical line with a small circle at the top and two small horizontal lines at the bottom, with a small dot in the center of the torso and a small dot at the bottom, and a small dot at the top of the head and a small dot at the bottom of the head, and a small dot at the top of the head and a small dot at the bottom of the head.
- Age 10: A vertical line with a small circle at the top and two small horizontal lines at the bottom, with a small dot in the center of the torso and a small dot at the bottom, and a small dot at the top of the head and a small dot at the bottom of the head, and a small dot at the top of the head and a small dot at the bottom of the head, and a small dot at the top of the head and a small dot at the bottom of the head.

Abstract of Disclosure

A personal portal in a data communications network that comprises a number of sites. The personal portal comprises a user profile applicable all over the network and a number of context profiles applicable within a certain site. The user profile comprises a private part accessible only by the user, and a public part accessible to the public. Each context profile may comprise personal information, personal settings, and access policies. As parts of the personal portal may be accessible and downloaded by other users, there is also provided a method and a system for keeping the downloaded profiles up to date. There is also provided a profile storage.